Bridging the Gap

The gap between what families earn and what it costs to live in Connecticut continues to grow year after year. Our policy agenda focuses on practical, proven solutions that help ALICE households navigate the affordability crisis.

INCREASE

in the number of households unable to afford the basics

These 570,000 households are working hard, raising children and contributing to our communities. As costs – housing, utilities, food, child care and health care – continue to rise faster than wages, too many Connecticut families are unable to make ends meet.
